Equine Assisted Activities and Therapies

Internet Privacy Policy

The Ride On St. Louis website is intended to serve as an opportunity for communication and support regarding issues involving equine-assisted activities and therapies. In the exchange of information or in the process of donating financial support you may be asked to provide your name, your address (postal and/or email) or other relevant facts. We do not share, rent or sell this information to other organizations or individuals. The Ride On St. Louis policy regarding your personal information is as follows:

Personal Information – In some places on the Ride On St. Louis site you may be asked to list your name, address (postal and/or email) and additional contact information. Knowledge collected from these locations is intended to help us improve the contents of our site, acknowledge your financial support and provide an opportunity for brief updated communication regarding a topic or activity of interest. A monthly news update may be sent via your electronic mail if you indicate an interest. If you join the organization, and wish to receive hard copy publications, you will be contacted through your postal address and may be prompted by electronic mail. We will not share any personal information with any third party. Personal information is accessible only by staff and volunteers designated to handle Ride On St. Louis activities. At any time you can add or remove your name from our mailing list by contacting us at info@rideonstl.org.

Help Us Keep Your Personal Information Accurate – If your personal information changes or you would like to review the personal information we may have on file, please email us with the new information or review request at info@rideonstl.org.

Security – We are committed to ensuring that your information is secure. To prevent unauthorized disclosure or access to your information, we have implemented strong physical and electronic security safeguards. We implement technological security measures including encryption, firewalls and secure socket layer technology. The computers and servers in which we store information are kept in a secure environment and only accessible to those with Ride On St. Louis who are granted access. However, these measures do not guarantee that your information will not be accessed, disclosed, altered or destroyed by breach of security measures. By using this website and the services on it you acknowledge and that you understand and agree to assume these risks.

Browser Information – Our Web server automatically recognizes domain names. It does not automatically capture your email address. We use this information to help diagnose problems with our server and to administer our site. This information may be used to discover broad demographic information about our user community.

Computer Tracking – Our web site is not set up to track, collect or distribute personal information not entered by its visitors. Our site logs do generate certain kinds of non-identifying site usage data, such as the number of hits and visits to our site. This information is used for internal purposes by technical support staff to provide better services to the public.

Links – The Ride on St. Louis site may contain links to other sites. Ride on St. Louis privacy practices may be different from those of a linked site. Please be aware that Ride on St. Louis is not responsible for the privacy policy or the activities of any other web site.

Ride On St. Louis reserves the right to modify the terms and conditions that apply to use of this site.

If you have any questions regarding our privacy policy, please contact us.
